Dear Josh:

Many thanks for your most considerate condolence letter, I really appreciate the time and effort you took to write.

I hope you will excuse my dictating this, but I have over five hundred letters to write and my arm isn't up to it.

I also thank you very much for inviting me to the meeting and dinner on Monday, October 3. Unfortunately, that same night the Whitehead Institute is sponsoring its first Symposium in Cambridge and I'm already scheduled to attend . . . I'm sure you will understand.

Kind regards and again, many thanks.

Sincerely,

Edwin C. Whitehead
Chairman
